Annual Mardi Gras Slated For Tonight In Gold Room; Coronation Will Be At 11

The university's annual Mardi Gras celebration will be tonight in the Student Union Gold room.

Crew Began Work On Lighting Before Christmas

Work on the unusual lighting for "Death of a Salesman" was started before Christmas by Charles J. Schmitt and his crew, according to David Weiss, drama instructor. Never have as many as three switch boards and 40 separate lighting instruments been used for one production by this campus theater, Weiss said.

Colored lights are used on certain locales of the stage to hold attention when there is action in the kitchen or the bedrooms. Different colored lights are used to give psychological effects.

When Willie is looking back on the "good old days" the amber lighting is used to give a feeling of gayety and happiness. When his dead Uncle appears to Willie, as a symbol of success, green lights are used to give a deadly, ghostly impression.

Each of the dream sequences is preceded with a dark green light on a back drop with white streaks in a modernistic design to create a feeling of confusion and conflict characteristic of the dreamer. The cold lavender light in the hotel scene shows Willie in a sordid light.

The 82 lighting cues required more than two weeks of special rehearsal, Weiss said.

MSU Goes New Orleans Style Tonight . . .

Dancing will be from 9 to 12 and the king and queen of the Mardi Gras will be crowned at 11.

Concessions such as darts, a sponge throw, and a fish pond will be sponsored by various organizations and living groups. A traveling trophy will be presented for the best concession. Last year Kappa Kappa Gamma won the concession prize with a freak show.

The Mardi Gras began on the MSU campus ten years ago as a joint project of the Student Union and ASMSU aided by Spur and Mortar Board. The first Mardi Gras was a carnival dance for the air cadets on the campus. It was a "terrific success" according to Miss Cyrille Van Duser, who helped originate the idea. About three years later Newman Club took over sponsorship of the Mardi Gras and has sponsored it ever since.

Mardi Gras or "Fat Tuesday" originated in France as a "farewell to meat" ceremony before Lent. Celebrating would begin sometimes after Christmas and end in one final fling the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday.

The custom was introduced in America when the French settled the Louisiana territory and centered in New Orleans, now the traditional city of the Mardi Gras. It is probably America's most "European" festival.

TO EDUCATION STUDENTS

All students who plan to take Education 26a or 26b, Observation teaching, spring quarter must see Mr. John Moody personally in BE 207 before Feb. 21.

Barrister's Annual Ball Falls Tonight

The ninth annual Barrister's ball will take place in a carnival atmosphere in the Governor's room of the Hotel Florence tonight. Music will be by the Moon Moods. Jeanne Couture, Arlee; Jim Cole, Livingston; and Wayne Folden, Polson; will sing and play at the semi-formal dance according to entertainment chairman, Arnold Huppert. Some skits will be presented during the evening.

Tickets are on sale in the Student Union and the Law school. Members of the Law school faculty will be guests.

The Law school wives were in charge of decorations for the dance. They used over 1,000 balloons in decorating.

Six law students planned arrangements for the ball. They were Jack Pinsoneault, St. Ignatius, advertising manager; Arnold Huppert, Livingston, entertainment chairman; Jim Patten, Missoula, general chairman; Dean Jellison, Kalispell, music chairman; Warren Little, Missoula, in charge of tickets; and Frank Kerr, Missoula, in charge of decorations.

Jim Patten, president of the Law school association extended an extension to everybody to come to the Barrister's Ball. "We are trying to get away from the idea that the Barrister's Ball is just for law students," he said.

SX Sweetheart Finalists Selected

Finalists for Sweetheart of Sigma Chi are Marie Austin, Helena, North Hall; Mary Ann Burnett, Richland, Wash., Kappa Kappa Gamma; Brenda McPherson, Missoula, Delta Gamma; Nancy Schilling, Missoula, Delta Gamma; and Virginia Van Horne, Wallace, Idaho, North Hall.

The 1953 Sweetheart will be crowned by Jerry Britton, Great Falls, Sigma Chi president, at the Ninth Annual Sweetheart ball February 14.

Doris Ann Mudd, Delta Gamma from Missoula, was the 1952 Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

CB Discusses Proposals For Change in Constitution; New Delegates Sworn In

BY WINNIE DINN

Three tentative proposals for change in the ASMSU constitution were discussed at the Central board meeting in the Eloise Knowles room of the Student Union yesterday.

The proposed changes discussed were (1) Cutting the number of major ASMSU committees to five; (2) limiting the term of office of all Central board delegates to one year and adding one more representative for each class; and (3) postponing election of freshman class officers until the middle or end of fall quarter.

Tom Van Meter, Ogden, Utah, presented the proposals for discussion so that he might take some further suggestions to his committee to aid them in their revising the constitution.

The five major committees would be traditions board, publications board, athletic board, budget and finance committee, and the social committee into which would be incorporated the convocations and outside entertainment committees. VanMeter said that the committee felt that such centralization would encourage greater efficiency and responsibility.

Under the present clause in the constitution, the sophomore and junior classes have a representative who serves for two years. Under the proposed plan all delegates would be elected for one year. Edwin W. Birggs, adviser to the group, wanted to know the philosophy behind the changes and wondered if such a change would affect the continuity of the group.

Some C-B members thought this would leave the continuity of the organization to political chance and that such continuity could only be secured by having members on Central board who had served previously. Others felt that such membership would add nothing to the continuity of the group and that the advisers who had worked with the group for several years could supply all continuity needed.

Beverly Henne and Norman Anderson, new delegates to Central board, were sworn in at the beginning of the meeting.

Don Cameron, business manager, reported that the total expense of the four Central board delegates who had gone to Utah last weekend had come to $76.34. Thus, $23.66 will be returned to the ASMSU treasury.

Danny Lambros, president, who was one of the delegates said that the trip had been a success and they had picked up some ideas which will help them in student government here. They went to the First Annual Interscholastic Leadership School conference while in Provo where the Montana delegation was congratulated on taking the progressive step in traveling around to find out what other schools were doing.

Bear Paws Open Fish Bowl Again

The Fish Bowl in the Copper room of the Student Union will be open for the second time both Friday and Saturday nights from 9 to 12:30 under the sponsorship of the Bear Paws.

On Friday night the club will serve food only and will be open as a concession. The menu will include Neptune's Noodles, French hot cakes, hamburgers, and pop.

Saturday night the Fish Bowl will have its regular program with dancing, food, and entertainment. Bob Newlin, Lewistown, will be master of ceremonies and the entertainment will be put on at various times throughout the evening.

Bob Newlin and Joe Roemer, Missoula, are in charge of entertainment and Walter O'Donnell, Havre, is cook.

Today's Meetings

Montana Forum, 12 noon, Eloise Knowles room.

Miss Montana, 1 p.m., Eloise Knowles room.

Miss Montana, 4 p.m., Bitterroot room.

World Student Service fund, 4 p.m., Eloise Knowles room.

New Student Union committee, 1 p.m., Saturday, Student Union.

Men's and Women's Ski classes, 1 p.m., Men's gym, Room 304, attendance required.

APO Discusses Future Plans

APO held an open house for members and prospective pledges Wednesday night.

Entertainment was provided by Norman Nelson, Berta Huebl, Arnie Carruthers, Bob Spiwak, and Wayne Folden.

Plans for the remainder of the school year were discussed. It was decided that the proceeds for APO's annual "Ugly Man" contest would go to the Western Montana chapter of the Boy Scouts.

Forum Discusses Oil Lands As School Money Source

BY DEL MULKEY

In the past year revenue derived from royalties and the sale of state oil lands and given to public schools has increased from $251,000 to $5 million, due mainly to discoveries in the Williston basin area of eastern Montana. This information was given by Prof. John A. Harris, moderator of the Montana Forum held in the Journalism auditorium last night.

Substitute Bill 48, passed a few days ago by the state legislature, has removed the time limit of 10 years that a non-productive well can be leased, it was explained by Prof. K. P. McLaughlin, chairman of the geology department. Formerly, if a well was not made to produce in ten year period it was turned back to the state and at the end of a 20-year period, even if producing, it was opened for re-bidding by the state.

Prof. McLaughlin also explained the state royalty system that is operating at present and how it means so much in the way of revenue for public schools. Twelve and one-half per cent of the revenue derived from the first 3,000 barrels is paid to the state, 17½ per cent of the next 3,000 and 25 per cent of oil produced in excess of 6,000 barrels. This quota is figured by the month.

Discussing a proposed conservation bill, Howard Gullikson, '35, now with the Shell Oil company at Casper, Wyo., said that the bill would cover all oil land in the state and would prevent indiscriminate placing of wells, prevent operators from storing oil in open pits where it is destroyed and dissipated.

Basil P. Andrikopulos, division manager of the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas association gave a history of Montana oil development.

Lindeman Decries 'Childish Humor' Of Columnists

Dear Editor:

Yesterday you found on your desk a protest against the childish humor written in: "How's Zat!" by Bob Alkire, "John Allgood," by Jay Ess, and a poem on bleeding cuts by Tom Krohn.

The large number of South and Jumbo residents who signed this petition were all of the opinion that future articles of this type should not be allowed into Kaimin print. Instead, why not more humor of the high level of "Haf-finch," or more of the recent series of interpretive articles on the Campus theatre, etc. Why waste space with such low humor when the Kaimin is always claiming it doesn't have space to print even the news it would like to?

Since the Kaimin has taken the defense of these articles, it is hoped that more students will protest. This seems the only way to make the Kaimin see that this sub-high school level humor is not appreciated.

Lawyers Challenge Forestry School To Basketball Tilt

Dear Foresters:

Let it be known that the sainted honored members of the Law school do now publish, present, communicate, and send forth a challenge to those degraded, low-life infestors of the halls, classrooms, and woodwork of the Forestry school to engage on the evening of February 14 our gallant hoopsters in a basketball game.

As a condition precedent to our match, we stipulate that all members of the team and rooting section representing said Forestry school shall bathe, deodorize, and do everything in their power to combat the stench and ticks notoriously associated with foresters.

This contest is considered by us as a public service to the University to abate, end, stop, and once and for all quiet the noxious mouths of those uncouth, uncultured, unbathed, and unschooled persons who populate that portion of the University devoted to learning a means to spend their miserable lives (fortunately) away from contact with more enlightened persons. (Explanation for foresters—in the woods.)

Our mental and scholastic superiority is unquestioned. The results of this game shall reaffirm the prowess of our members on the basketball court.

SENIORS SHOULD REGISTER

Graduating seniors are urged to get their registration papers filled out and returned to Mrs. Leona Peterson, secretary of teacher placement, in Room 105 of Craig Hall.

The sooner the papers are turned in, the sooner references can be made up to show visiting superintendents, Mrs. Peterson said.

How's Zat!

BY BOB ALKIRE

This ain't a university! It don't even act like one—nor do it look like one!

I can faintly remember in the years preceding World War II, when a college student was supposed to look, think, talk and act like one.

Take for instance the time that two prominent fraternities, lacking entertainment funds (i.e. beer money), each ordered a case of eggs, delivered no less to their doors. Since breakfast had long since passed, the obvious thing to do was throw them at someone—preferably another fraternity.

With true American ingenuity of the times, members of the two groups decided to throw the eggs —possibly rotten—at each other. The battle that followed made today's pantie raids look like a good clean Sunday school game.

A common explanation from residents of the Gerald avenue district was: "Jist like them damn college kids!"

Compared with yesteryear, today's MSU is a factory—humming quietly, but not seething with hell-raisin' students like those of the past.

Of course times were a little different economically then. The average student from Wide Road didn't drive a Buick Super Dynaflow with twin spots and convertible top. Five-cent beer, 11-cent gas and $2 dates were the rule, along with fading hip flasks and the "I Saw Momma Kussin' Santa Claus" of the day—"Marge."

But ya know—when someone said: "Jist like those damn college kids"—there was wonder in their voices and a certain amount of respect.

Variety Spices Society

BY WINNIE DINN

A variety of social events this week end will give the middle of winter quarter, with its low morale and visions of a grade curve going sky high, a sudden boost into the realm of high spirits.

Friday night will spotlight the Newman club's annual Mardi Gras with its gala carnival booths and dancing. Also, the Press club is giving a dinner at the Steak house with entertainment provided by each of the four journalism classes.

Girls will be back in formals night at the Barrister's ball in the Governor's room of the Hotel Lorence. On Saturday night Sigma Alpha Epsilon is having its inter formal dinner dance with snow theme. Also on Saturday night the Fish Bowl in the Copper room will be open for the second time.

"Death of a Salesman" will continue its run tonight and tomorrow night.

Blues, Strips Register Wins

Two close, low-scoring games marked action in Tuesday's intramural basketball. Strips No. 2 edged Alpha Tau Omega 37-31, handing the ATO's their third loss of the season. The Blues defeated the Foresters 38-33.

Senior Dick Marks and Don Jensen paced the Strips scoring. They contributed 24 of their team's 37 points. Jim Loebach continued his steady scoring for the ATO's, garnering nine.

The Blues effectively used a two-platoon system to out-last the under-manned Foresters. Only the Foresters' Don Lantz, who hooped 21 in a big night, nine in the first quarter, kept the Foresters in competition.

Denver, New Mexico Next Foes

Grizzly court-men will try to end their losing streak this weekend when they meet the Denver Pioneers in Missoula Saturday night. Monday night the New Mexico Lobos will invade the Grizzlies here after a Saturday night contest with Utah State.

Denver is in sixth place (2-4) in conference standing, one step above Montana who dropped to a tie for last place with Utah State in Monday night's game.

Joe Lethrop, 6-foot 10-inch forward, not only raises the average height of the team, but does a good share of the scoring and rebounding along with Kalas and Blair.

Tom Rhone at guard has been the spark of the Pioneer attack in most of their games this season. Denver's two conference wins this season have been over Utah State and Colorado A&M. Both these teams beat Montana by a small margin.

One of the upsets of the season almost occurred when Denver lost to Brigham Young University by one point.

The New Mexico Lobos, Grizzly

foes Monday night, have moved up to a tie with Colorado A&M for third and fourth place on the conference ladder. The Lobos have 3 wins and 5 losses so far this season. They looked exceptionally good in their 88-66 win over the Denver Pioneers last Saturday night.

Earlier in the season the Lobos lost an overtime game to the league-leading Wyoming Cowpokes.
